

Homebirth Coloring Book

Storyline by Rebecca Britt Walton.
Illustrations by Emily Fennell.

Copyright 2003 by Rebecca Britt Walton. All rights reserved.
This document may be reproduced only with permission. Thank you.

It was a lot of fun to have our baby at home!

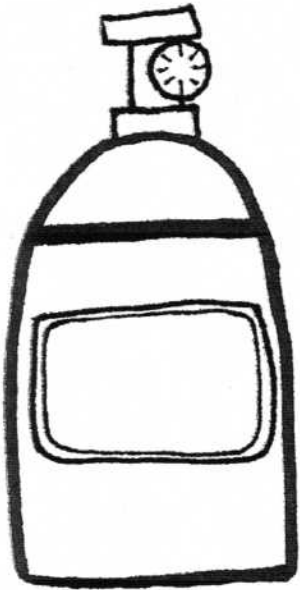

Maggie, our midwife, comes back every day for the next four days to make sure that Mommy and Sarah are doing well. She weighs my little sister, listens to her heartbeat, and takes her temperature. She checks Mommy's blood pressure, takes her temperature, and checks Mommy's tummy to make sure it's getting smaller.

I'm really tired from all the excitement and I fall asleep. When I wake up I have a new baby sister! Her name is Sarah and she's very cute. I get to hold her!

Stethoscope

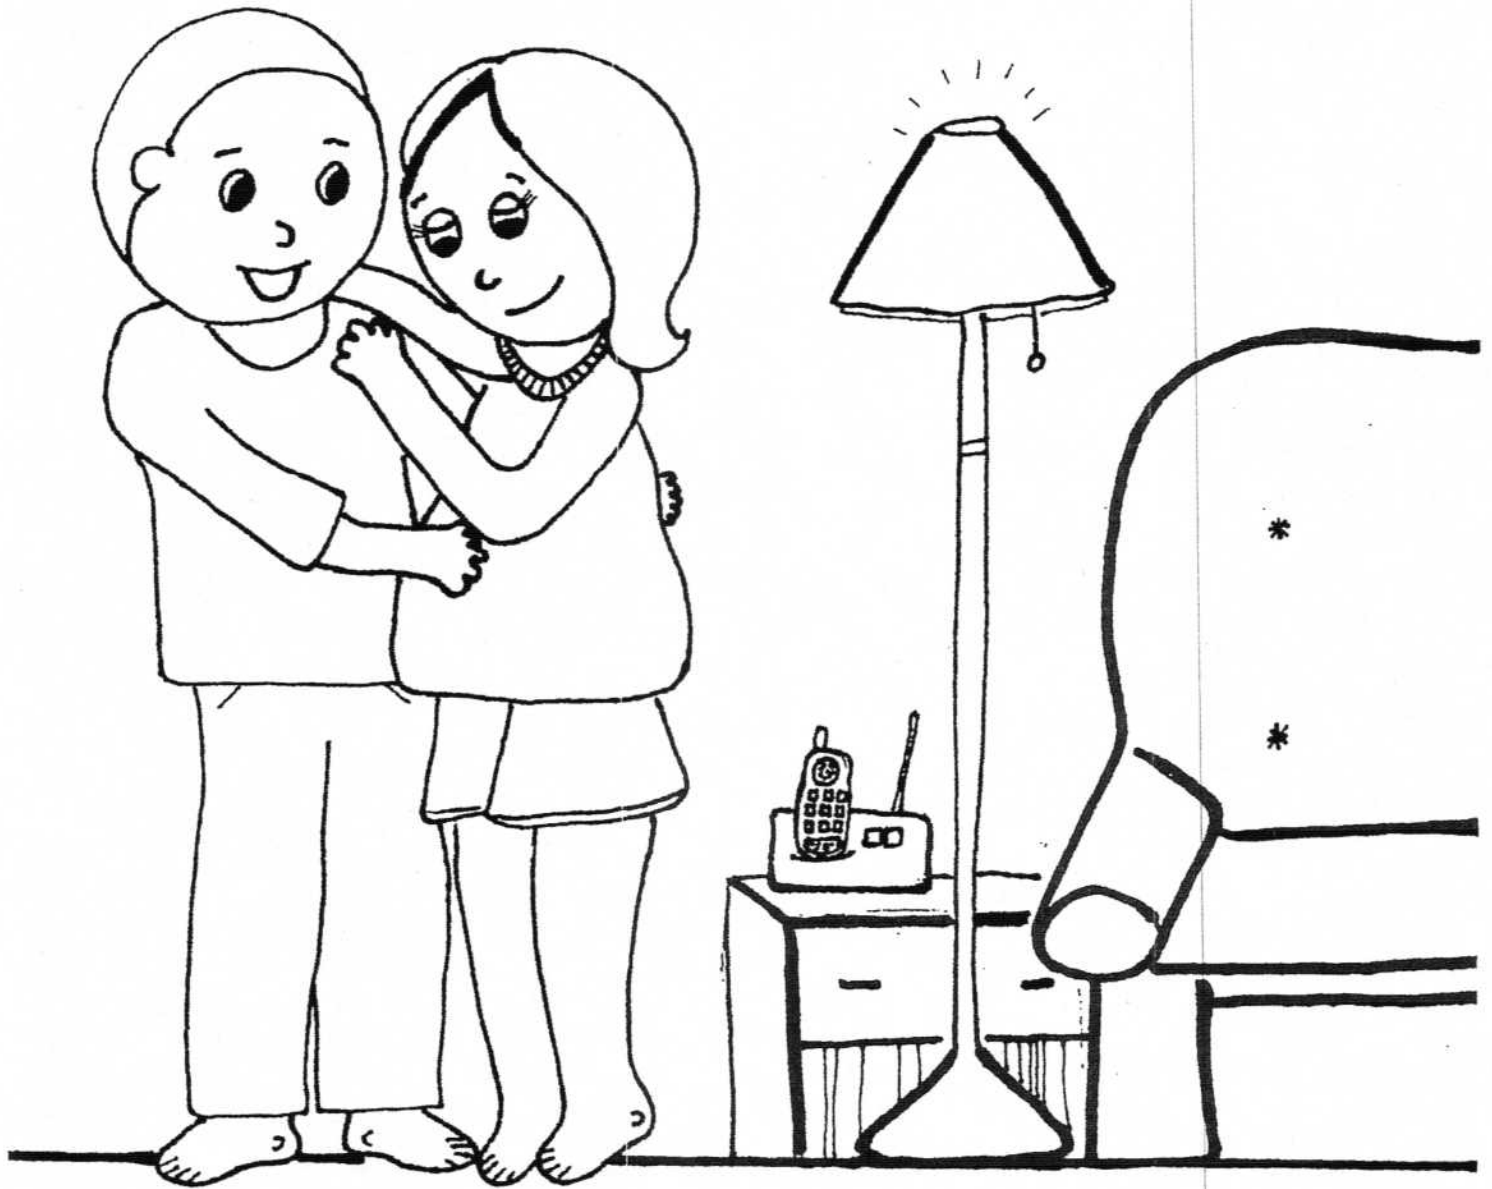

Oxygen Tank

hanging Scale

When Maggie arrives she brings a lot of neat stuff with her: a hanging scale to weigh our baby, a tiny stethoscope to listen to the heartbeat, and a tank with oxygen in case our baby needs help breathing.

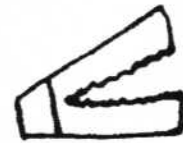

Mommy and Daddy said that our baby is coming very soon. They call Maggie to come to our house. Mommy walks around a lot and makes funny noises. She must think it's funny, too, because she laughs with Daddy when she's not making them.

Birth - Kit :

Latex Gloves

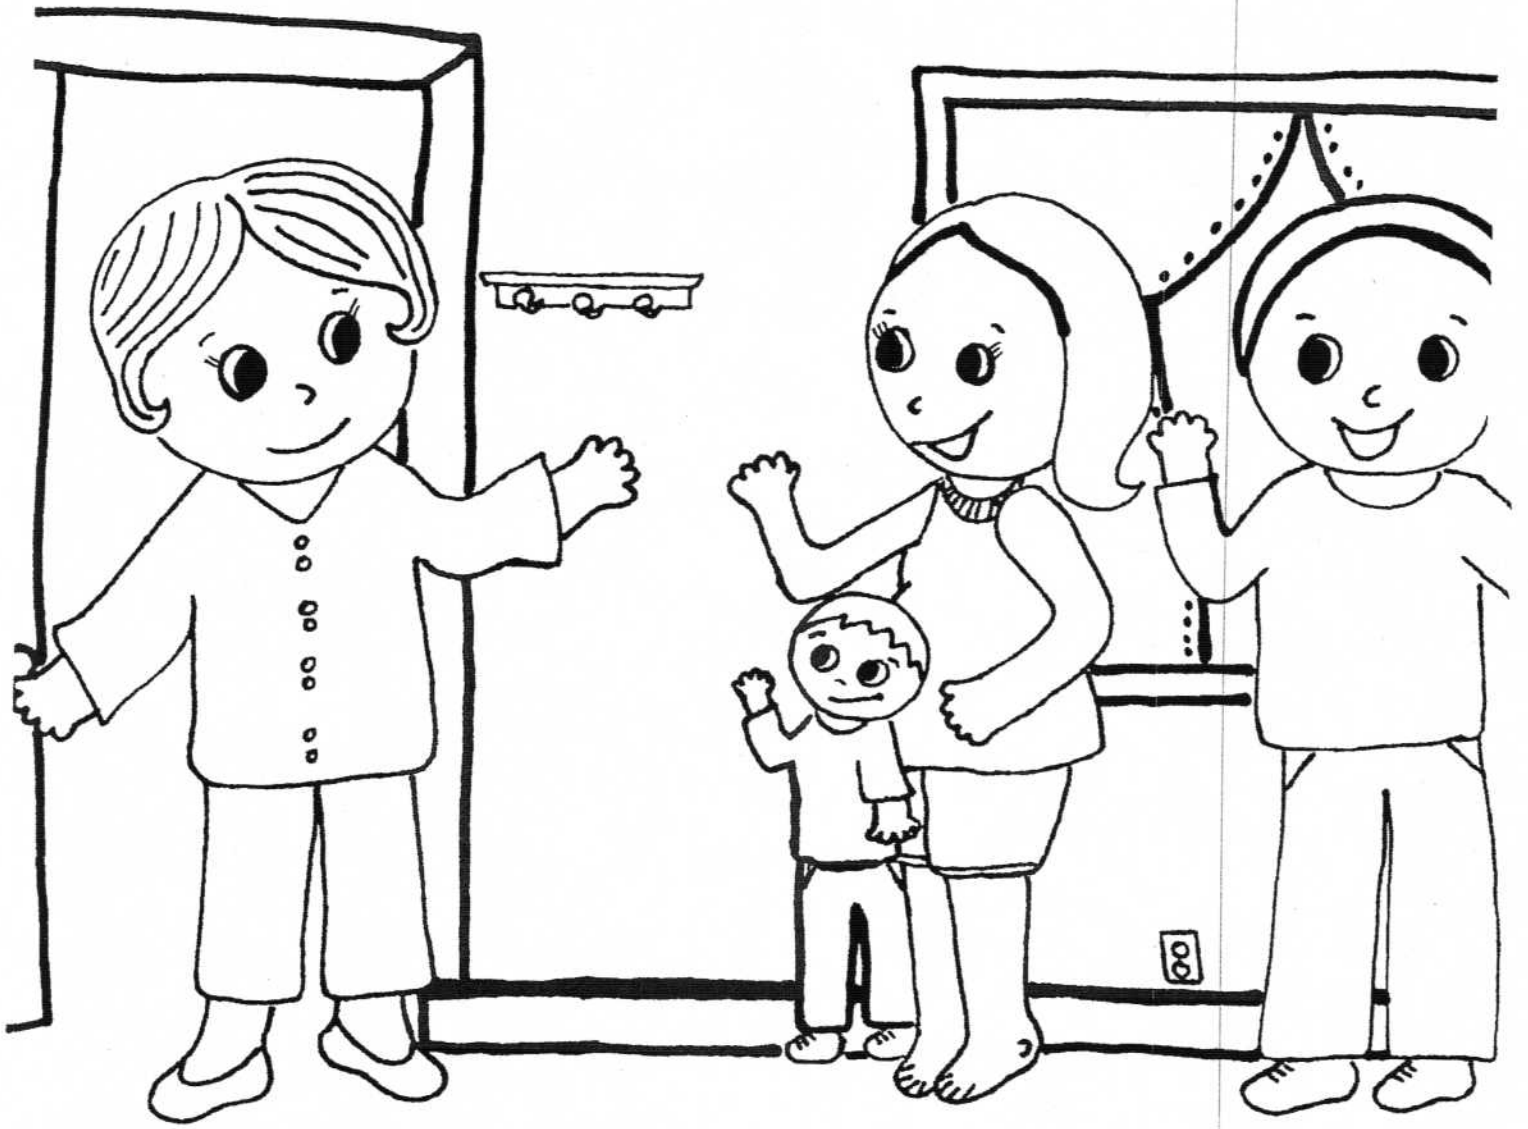

CLAMP

Mommy and Daddy have a big box of neat stuff, too. They call it a Birth Kit. The box contains soap, latex gloves, a clamp for the baby's umbilical cord, a little hat, special things for Mommy, a birth certificate, and ink to stamp the baby's feet with.

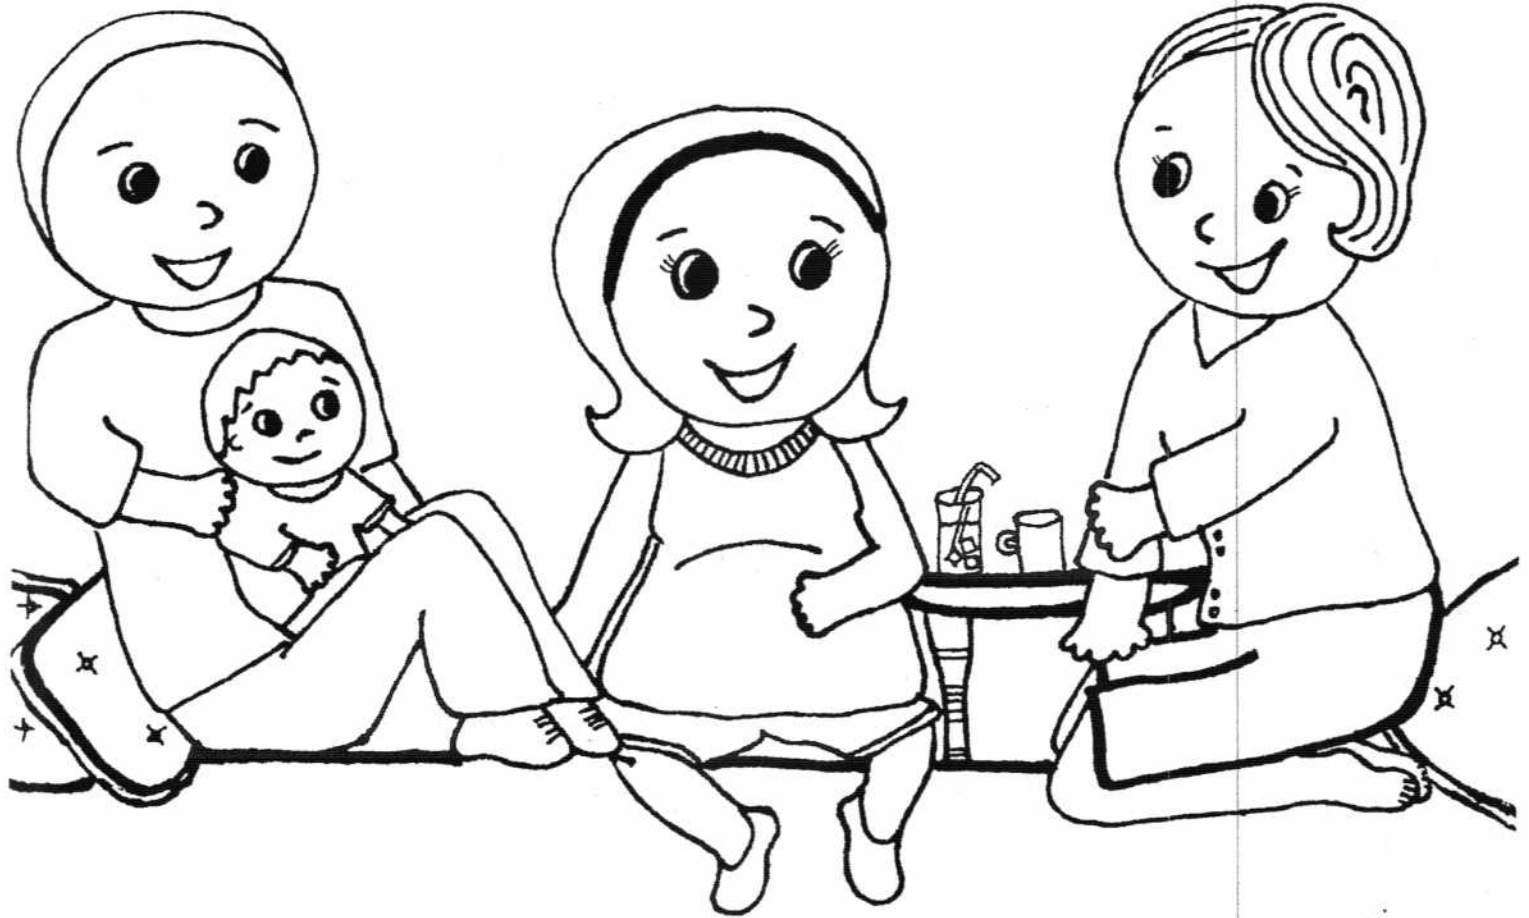

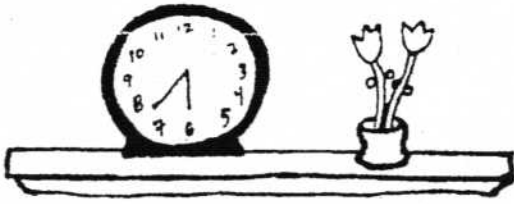

hat

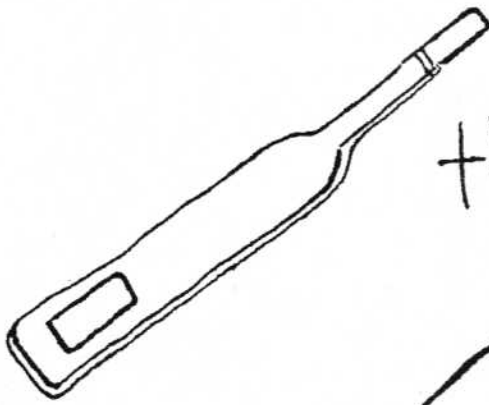

I'm sad when Maggie leaves.

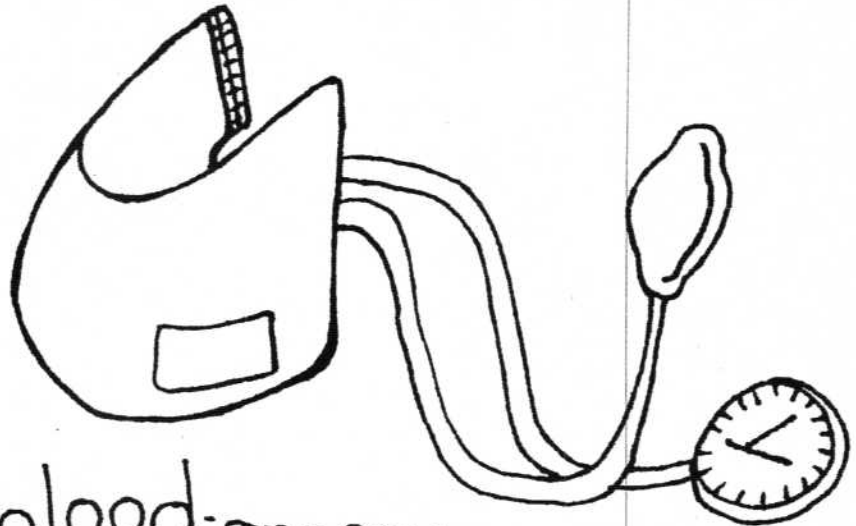

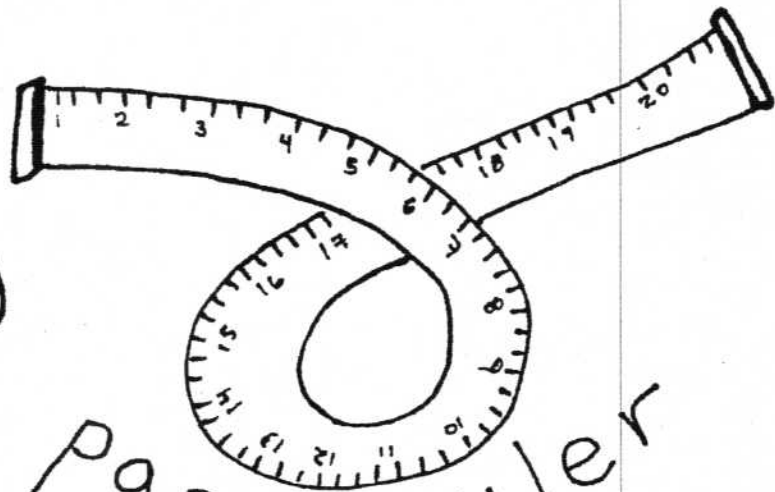

Mommy, Daddy, and I get to ask the midwife questions about our baby. Mommy and Daddy talk with her forever! They laugh and have a happy time.

thermometer

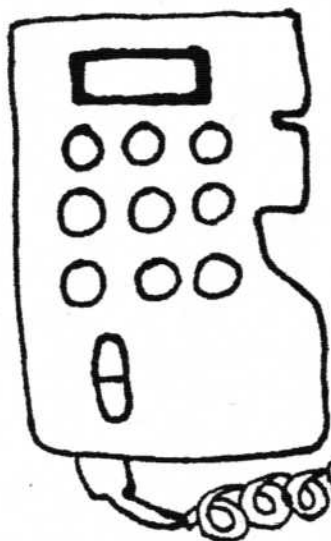

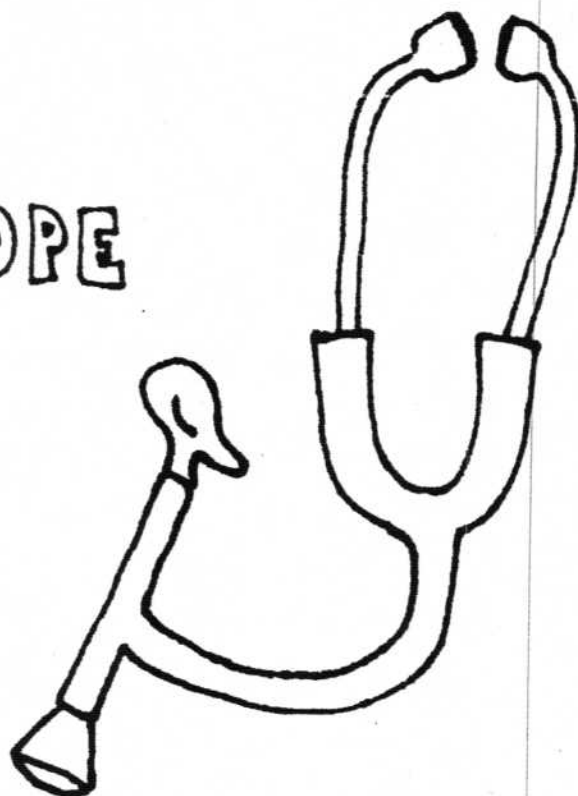

blood-pressure cuff

paper ruler

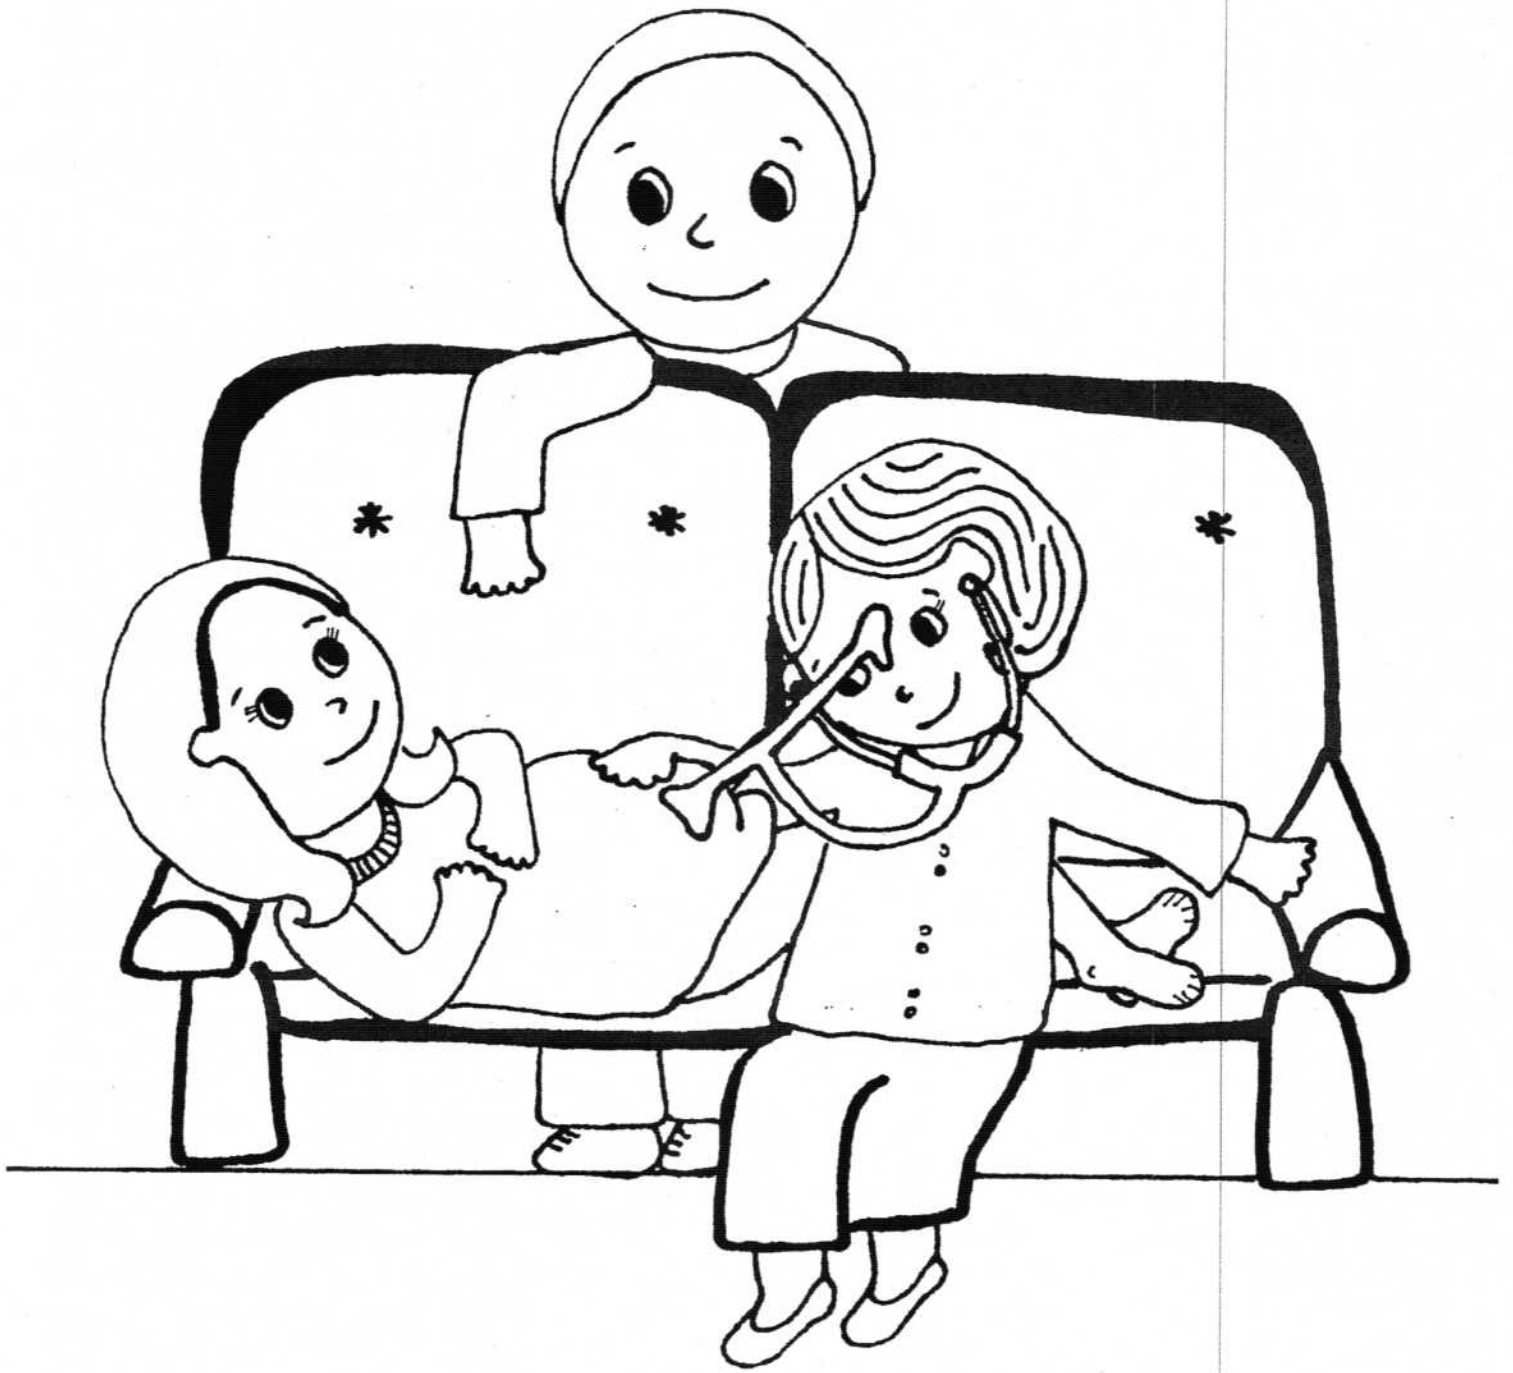

My mommy has a BIG tummy. The midwife can see how big it has grown by measuring with a paper ruler. She also checks Mommy's blood pressure and takes her temperature.

FETASCOPE

DOPPLER

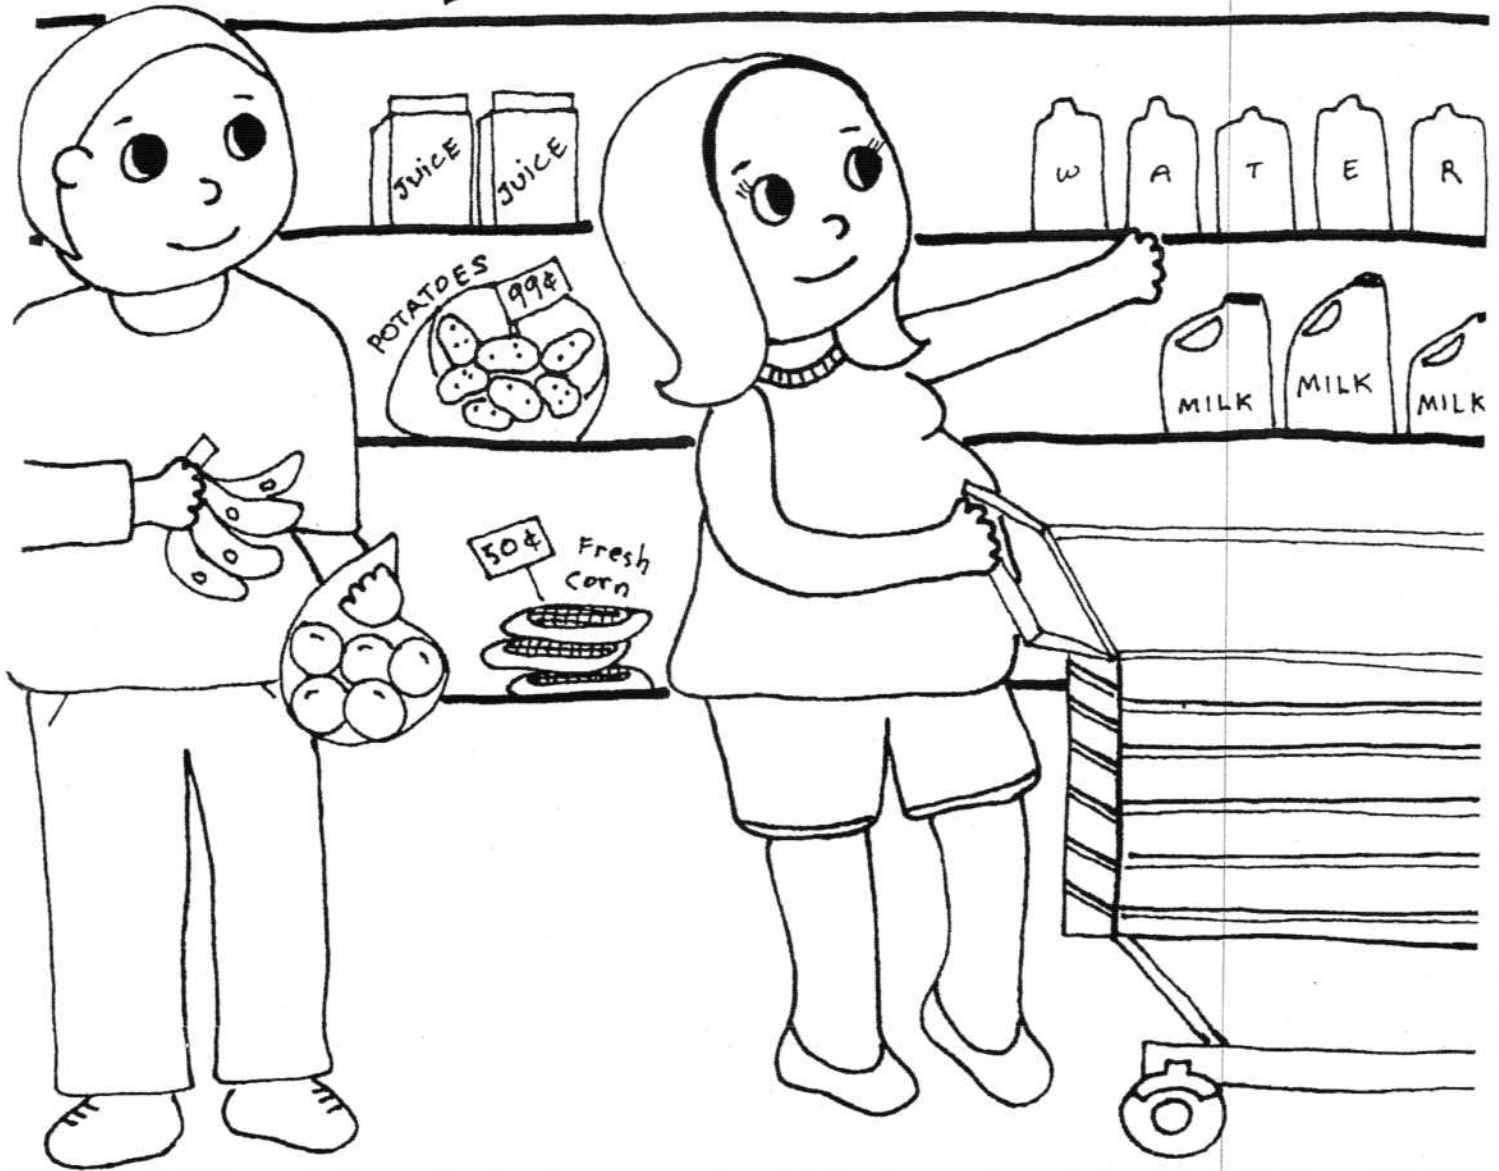

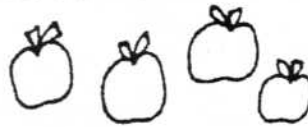

Maggie listens to our baby's heartbeat with a fetoscope and sometimes a doppler.

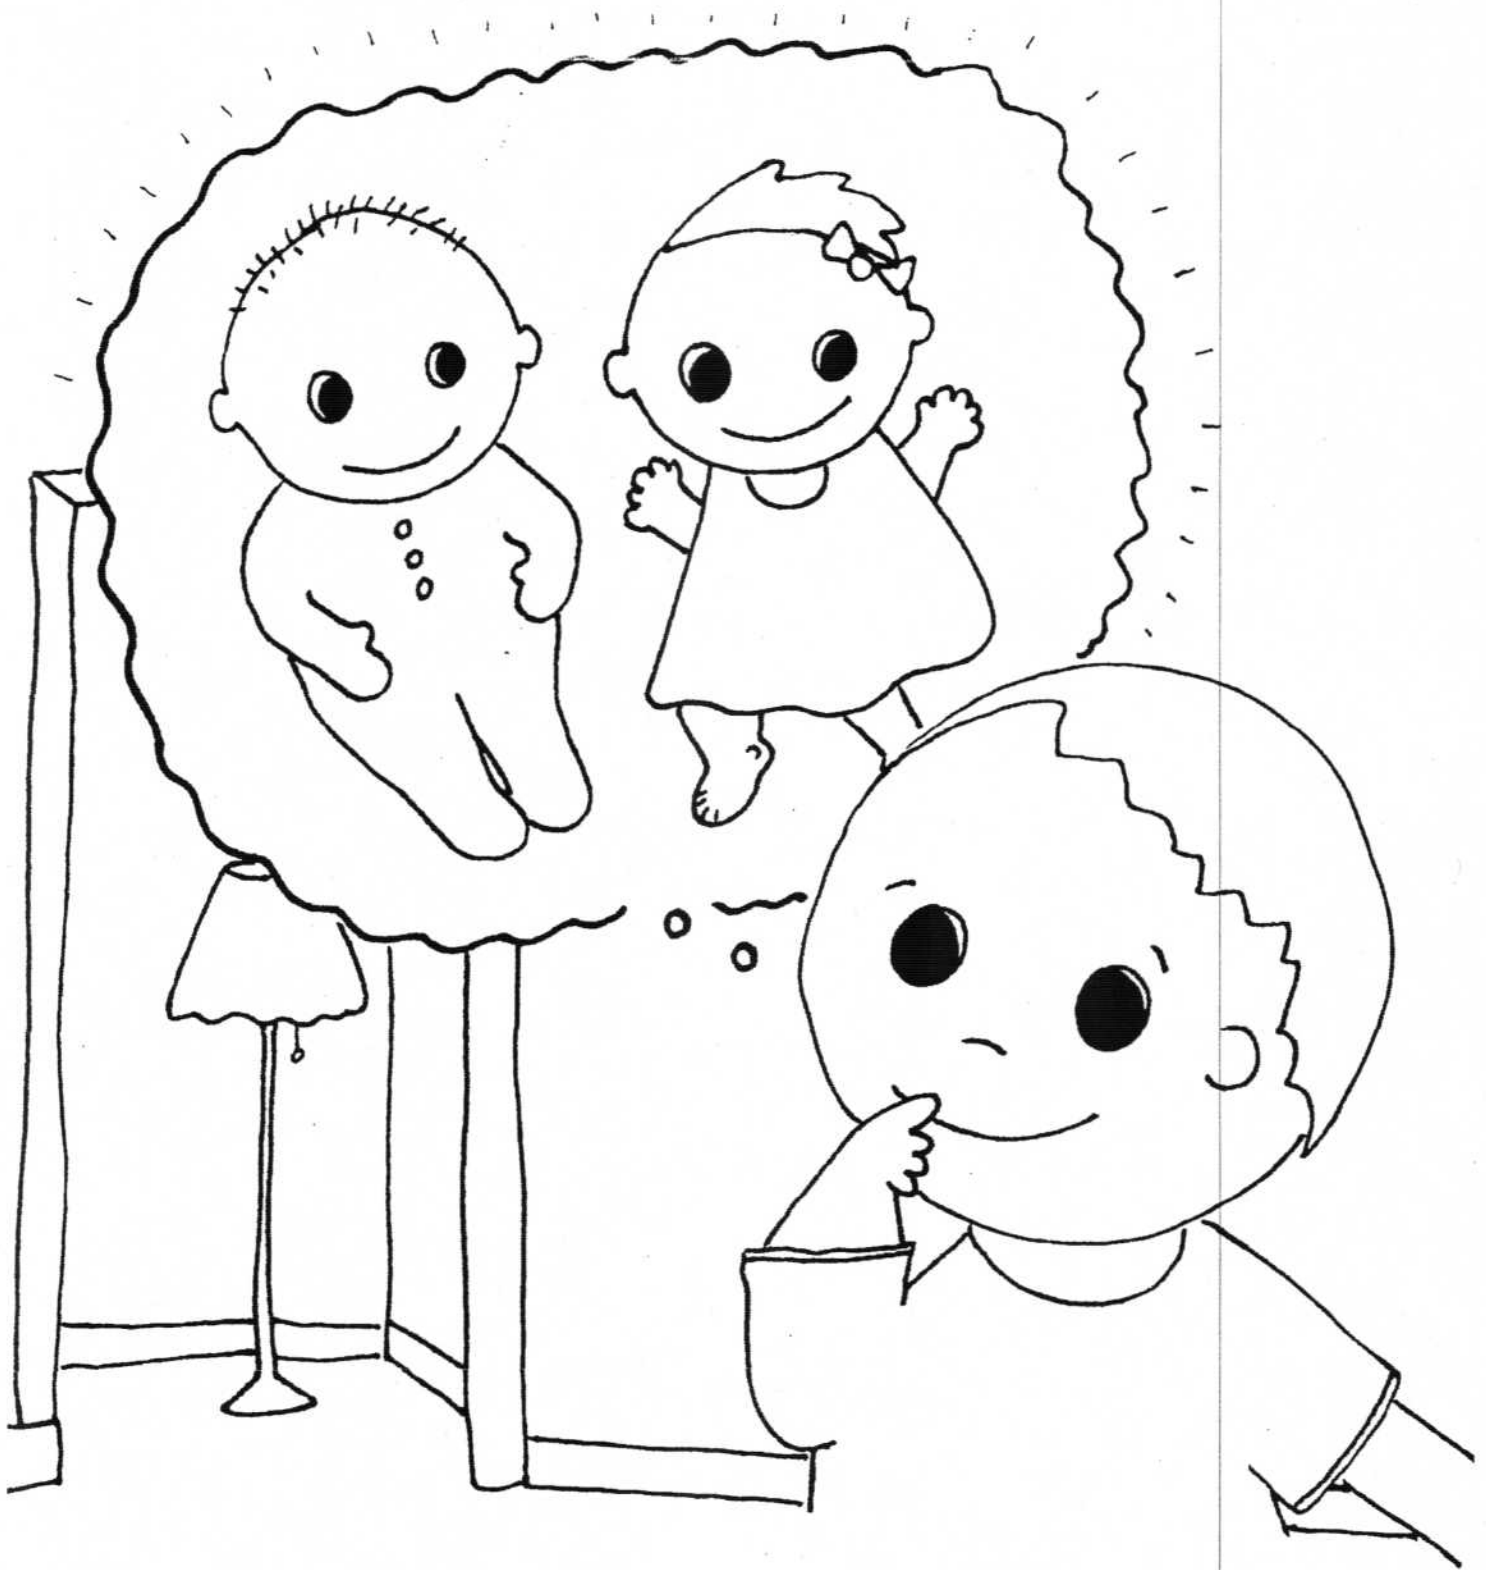

Maggie comes to our house to see my mommy and to check up on my little brother or sister. Maggie is a midwife.

FRESH PRODUCE

carrots • spinach • apples • broccoli • peas

My mom eats nutritious foods and drinks lots of water to keep our baby healthy.

I can't wait to see if I'll get a brother or a sister. My mommy's going to have our baby at home.

There's A New Baby In My House

A STORY TO COLOR...